

Dorsey Knott

Most weekends Dorsey Knott, our marketing manager can be found dangling from a rafter patching corrugated tin, or crawling under our little Arnaudville brewery trying to fix a newly sprung leak in the plumbing. All the while he is thinking of new ways to squeeze an extra barrel of beer from our existing setup.

There is always something to fix, rig or modify to increase production at our too small brewery.

Dorsey worked for several years as a bartender in Lafayette before serving in the U S Air Force as a purchasing agent. He has been the general manager of a regional data integration company and of a contract food warehouse.

An avid sportsman, Dorsey can be found most mornings during the winter in his duck blind and later, during crawfish season, wearing hip boots pulling a bateau in our family's crawfish pond. He also is an avid angler, throwing his hook where ever the fish go.

He shoots or catches a lot of the ingredients for our Gumbos.

When he is not on the road visiting the stores that carry our beer or tasting LA-31 on tap with a new bar account, Dorsey is the producer, and brother Byron is the cameraman for a YouTube cooking series known as the Cajun Wife, starring his wife Laurin.
